How many isolated solutions are hindering your documentation?

And how much time and money is it costing you day after day?

Consulting |
Projects | Plug-ins

Efficient. Tailor-made. Future-proof.

Is your documentation costing time and causing stress?

Duplicate data maintenance, missing interfaces and unclear processes lead to long processing times, incorrect information and unnecessary costs. Each department works with its own tools – there is no unified information basis.

Thanks to the company's unique portfolio, gds is familiar with all the relevant processes in technical documentation. We work together with you to develop your own individual solution package which is integrated perfectly into your company – for an efficient, cost-effective and complete content life cycle without any loss of efficiency.

Processes without structure cost hard cash

Unclear processes and a lack of standards lead to added workloads, errors and unnecessary costs. Therefore, gds analyzes your existing processes, defines clear requirements and develops a practical implementation concept.

Our accompanying and enhancing services make sure that you receive exactly the support you need:

- ✓ Consultation services prior to introduction
- ✓ Information and documents analyses
- ✓ Specification and implementation of your process requirements
- ✓ Support for modularization and structuring
- ✓ Content management support and system filling

Too many tools which do not interact?

Insufficient interfaces make for duplicate data maintenance, media disruptions and inconsistent information. That's exactly where gds comes in: We integrate docuglobe, XR, complyhub or easybrowse seamlessly into your existing IT environment.

We use individually developed plug-ins and interfaces to connect your systems intelligently. As a result, you can use information multiple times – in service, sales, marketing, engineering, development or standardization – without redundant working steps or unnecessary sources of error.

Nobody can afford long implementations

Especially in the field of technical documentation, any delay leads to additional workload and costs. That's why gds takes care of practical implementation: We analyze your documents, modularize contents, fill systems and provide you with flexible support – from workshops and standardized training courses, individual training modules and selective support in case of load peaks to complete outsourcing.

Our experts are on hand during the entire system introduction process – whether it's for terminology work, specialist translations, CE support or the generation of risk assessments.

Errors and double the workload hindering your team

With gds you create a central information basis for content management, service, sales, marketing, development and standardization. The result: shorter processing times, clear processes and consistent information over the entire content life cycle.
